PLANNED For a SMALL LOT

AN EXTERIOR OF REDWOOD SIDING and a cedar shingle roof lend this attractive little house an air of distinction. Its individuality is further enhanced by the recessed entrance and Dutch door, such an arrangement doing away with the boxy appearance of many small houses.

By MARION CLYDE MCCARROLL

TINY as this snug little home appears from the street, it actually has 870 square feet of floor space, into which are ingeniously fitted a large living room, dining room, kitchen, snack bar, two bedrooms and bath. A rear enclosed terrace practically adds an extra living room.

Among the many special features which make it attractive to the home builder are the fact that it was planned for a very small lot, and that its cost is well under $10,000.

Brick in natural color, accented by white trim, gives the front of the house a sparkling, fresh look. Although the house is actually far from traditional in design, it combines, outside and in, the charm of the traditional with the flexibility and freedom of the modern. An attractive innovation is the recessed entrance, which increases the apparent front width of the house and does away with the square boxy appearance of many small houses. A Dutch entrance door, flanked by tiers of open shelves for growing plants, adds an unexpected and inexpensive note of individuality.

Another original detail is the triangular plant-stand under the bedroom window. Besides adding a decorative color note to the facade, the stand also serves to balance this small window against the very large picture-window on the opposite side of the door.

Because this large living-room picture-window "turns the corner" and continues until interrupted by the fireplace, the generous window area gives the room a heightened sense of freedom and space, further enhanced by exposed ceiling rafters.

Informality is the keynote of this friendly house. Large-paned windows also give a flexible, spacious feeling to the dining area, contrasting effectively with the traditional effect of the pine panelling on the walls. A long mantel-shelf extends almost for the full length of the brick-and-pine fireplace wall, and to brighten the center of the room, the present owner conceived the ingenious idea of displaying her collection of American handmade glassware on the shelf where they reflect light and brilliance from the end windows. A built-in woodbox handily stores a ready supply of fuel for chilly evenings.

One of the most novel features of the house is the clever way the dining area at the terrace end of the living-room can be used as both a dining and a sitting-room. This is accomplished chiefly by the use of a large handsome built-in cabinet which forms one wall of the alcove. On the open shelves of the cabinet, decorative pieces of American handmade glassware here, too, add charm and importance to the room, besides making it seem larger by reflecting light from the floor-to-ceiling sidewall of windows. The sparkle of the glassware against the smooth pine of the cabinet provides a gracious background for a game or conversation corner. A further decorative note is furnished by narrow shelves fitted into the windows to hold other beautiful pieces of glassware.

At mealtime, the ingenious practicality of the cabinet becomes further apparent. The hinged top-center section can be quickly let down to form a table which adequately serves four or five people. Dishes, linens and other equipment are stored in the enclosed lower half.

A short window-walled passageway leads from dining-room to kitchen, freely admitting light and lightening kitchen tasks by giving from this trim room an unobstructed view of the terrace. The kitchen is partly divided from the passageway by a pine snack-bar.

The bath is centrally situated between the two bedrooms and near the living-room. Both bedrooms have roomy closets and there is a large closet in the center connecting hallway.

The basementless house is built on a concrete slab foundation and heated by a compact modern heating unit. Outside walls are of redwood siding and the roof is cedar shingles.

SMALL AS THE HOUSE APPEARS from the street, it packs a lot of living into its 870 square feet of space. Two bedrooms with bath between, a large living room with dining area and kitchen with snack bar are included.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

WARM weather, bringing with it the urge to roam the great outdoors, indicates to a knowing housewife that, once, again, time will prove the most important factor in preparing meals for her family during the next few months.

However, since any conscientious cook is never completely willing to sacrifice quality for speed, the A & P Service for Homemakers recommends trying skillet meat loaf, an easily prepared, yet surprisingly substantial meal. Served with frozen, mixed vegetables and lettuce wedges with Russian dressing, this meal will consume a minimum amount of time and provide maximum satisfaction.

Necessary ingredients include one pound of round of beef, ground with two tablespoons of chopped green pepper, one quarter cup chopped onion, three tablespoons chopped celery, one cup of crushed corn flakes, one well-beaten egg, one teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon catsup, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and one-half teaspoon of mustard.

Shape this mixture round so as to fit into skillet and place in two tablespoons of hot fat in pan. Break the package of frozen vegetables in half and place in the pan. Cover and cook for 30 minutes over simmer flame.

Then remove and garnish with sprigs of watercress before serving. This meal will provide four adequate servings and, naturally, increased servings can be provided simply by increasing the ingredients proportionately.

Starting this meal with cream of tomato soup and winding it up with a fresh fruit cup with cookies or other fancy crackers will give it just the proper touch of non-chalance which appeals to those anxious to waste no time before renewing their acquaintance with Mother Nature.

GUARD HEALTH; FIGHT FLIES WITH SCREENS, SPRAYS, ETC.

By Miss Frances Vannoy

Home Economics Representative
One hazard to the health of every family is the common housefly. The first one to appear is a reminder that generations of flies will follow. Homemakers are advised to act now.

Take protective measures to safeguard the home and food supply from flies. Clean out and get rid of their breeding places. Use screens on all doors and windows to help keep flies out of the house.

Screens should fit tightly and meshes of the screen should be small. There are several materials for screens—some more expensive than others. Expensive screens, such as those made of copper, are good buys because they are more durable and will last longer than cheaper ones.

Check to see that screen doors fit closely. Hang them so that they open to the outside. When flies gather on the screen, it is easier for them to enter the house if the door opens to the inside. Sometimes flies get into well-screened houses. That is why constant warfare is necessary in all homes.

Enlist all members of the family to take part in a campaign against flies. Try swatting, fly traps, fly papers, or sprays. Information on sprays for control measures prepared by extension entomologists of the Pennsylvania State College may be obtained from the county agricultural extension office.

You know, all religion isn't simply finding out how evil we are! There is a lot of real joy tied up in it, too. Lots of writers today try to tell us that Jesus was a failure, and to look at most of the religious art, one would think so. But last summer, we used some slides in our Church School that actually showed our Lord smiling. What a welcome change! And what a difference the thought of a friendly, smiling Christ can make in our lives. Spend one day thinking of Him in that way, and you will have a different outlook.

Inform What To Expect Of The First Graders

ANDALUSIA, June 15 - At the Andalusia school house, on Wednesday, elementary supervisor, Mrs. Elsie Dubhorn, and the first grade teacher, Mrs. Frances Murphy, were present to discuss with the mothers of children who will enter first grade in September, what to expect of the child during his first year in school. Discussion also took place on how the child can be helped at home to enjoy his first and most important school year.

Mrs. Dubhorn explained that it is very hard for a child to be forced to compete in work and play with children who are much more mature than he. "Such relations with other children may discourage him and make him unhappy and unsuccessful in his first school experiences, and may hold him back in later school years."

Mrs. Murphy stressed the fact that parents could encourage their children by showing sincere interest in his school activities and in the things he brings home. "Help him to feel that he is a 'big boy' now and to understand that school is his 'job' and to feel pride in it. Read his report cards carefully and if any question arises, take the problem to his teacher and discuss it with her. Read him stories at home, help him be observant of nature and encourage him in his school work by visiting his classes." It was stated that a child entering school should be able to do the following things: Take off and put on his wraps, and hang them up; use a handkerchief properly; know how to tie his own shoelaces; wash and dry hands; care for his own property and respect that of others; eat properly, give his full name and address, respond willingly and promptly to requests, directions and questions and to speak clearly

FIREMEN FAIL TO HOLD LEAD; LOSE TO JEFFERSON

Fire Company No. 1, failed to hold a two-run lead in its tilt with Jefferson A. C. last evening on Memorial Park field and were beaten out 8-3, when Jefferson scored six times in the fourth inning.

Until the outburst of the six runs, the firemen were in front and Jefferson had made but two hits off "Eddie" Kornichuk. But once in front Jefferson played like champions and held its lead.

The sextet of markers were scored when Hunter and Imperato drew walks. Ed Hunter was forced out by Tom Ruggieri. John Cordisco was given a base on balls to load the bases. Both Imperato and Ruggieri crossed the plate when Calone let B. Croche's throw get away from him on Willie Salerno's grounder. Joe Ferraro walked to again pack the bases. Howard Peltz sent Cordisco home with a hit. After Clottli lined out, "Vic" Cauti brought in two more runs with a hit. Two more walks forced in Peltz with the sixth tally.

H. Cochran gave the fire-fighters their pair of tallies in the second when he clouted out a home run with "Pete" Caputo on base.

Salerno was the winning hurler, he giving up five hits and walking but one man. Kornichuk passed 11 batters, six in the fourth frame.

FLEETWING ESTATES DROPS TENTH GAME

TULLYTOWN, June 15 — Fleetwing Estates dropped its tenth straight game of the Bristol Suburban Softball League last evening as it bowed to the Tullytown A. C. team, 8-3, on the Kings Farm field. The victory also strengthened Tullytown's grip on first place in the circuit.

Claude "Tiny" Deitzler hurled the Tullytown boys to the triumph and with the exception of the fifth frame had easy sailing all evening. Of the seven hits allowed by the Tullytown moundman, four came in the fourth when the Estates' team manufactured a pair of runs. The recently-acquired Tony Zanni did the pitching for the Estates contingent. He was touched for eleven hits, one a home run by Tony Rappo in the fourth inning. No one was on base at the time. Zanni's support was ragged, the five errors being charged to his team aiding the homers in scoring.

"Frankie" Balazs had two hits for the losers while "Norm" White, Roy Lynch and Rappo had a pair of bingles each for Tullytown.

FISHER'S HOME-RUN CLINCHES THE GAME

"Chuck" Fisher's homerun with two on base in the last inning clinched the game for the Rohm & Haas team last evening as the chemical workers blanked the Manhattan Soap team in a Bristol Industrial League game.

In tossing his team to an 8-0 shutout win, Jack Spencer allowed the soap-makers but four scattered hits. John Gallagher hurled for the losers and was given good support by his mates, especially Ralph Kratz who stopped several hard hit balls.

"Danny" Mulchneck led the winners with the club, getting three out of four while "Dom" Paolella had two out of three for Manhattan.

ST. ANN'S MOVES NEARER 2ND PLACE IN TRENTON LEAGUE

St. Ann's A. A. moved to within one-half game of second place in the Trenton Industrial League last evening by winning over the Trenton Pirates, 9-6, on Memorial Park field. The "Saints" have their real test this evening when they play the league-leading American Steel team on Memorial field.

Leo Fiorelli and Tony Cauti did the mound work for the Wood Streeters against the Pirates. Fiorelli was the winning pitcher, he being taken out in the seventh when the visitors scored three times.

Jack Toppin was Manager Fred Scully's choice for hill work. Toppin managed to stay the limit but the hard-hitting Bristol team collected 12 hits off his delivery.

Bert Barbetta accounted for two of the St. Ann's runs in the first canto by slashing one of Toppin's pitches to deep centerfield for a home run, scoring "Chuck" Klein ahead of him. Klein had singled to score Tony Palumbo who had opened the game with a two-bagger.

Joe Elmer was behind the plate for the "Saints" and had a double and single to his credit. He drove in three St. Ann's tallies and did a fine job in catching.

Leading the visitors with the stick was Johnny Tarr who had three out of five.

St. Ann's made fast double-plays in the first and fifth innings to cut threatening Pirates' rallies.

Solicitors In Perkasee Must First Get Permits

PERKASIE, June 15 — All solicitors in the future will be required to procure permits from the Chief Burgess here before the solicitation of business houses and individuals, here, can be undertaken. This was decided at the meeting of Borough Council, this week.

This new ordinance is aimed at solicitors who are inclined to pest business places and individuals. Council feels that with unemployment on the increase, this practice will take an upturn.

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Thirty girl scout leaders of the Bucks County Council of Girl Scouts completed the outdoor activities training course and were awarded certificates indicating the completion of 6-8 hours of formal training.

The four sessions included instruction in hiking and outdoor cooking. Many of the group will continue with the troop camp licensing course which will enable them to take their groups on overnight trips.

The council announces that it will be able to make available a site for troop camping. All Bucks county troops will have access to this site during July, August and September. The screened cabin and tent is located on the Montessori School property in Wycombe.

With the arrival of new street marker signs, Sellersville borough employees immediately began erection of the signs throughout the town. The markers will be placed at every intersection. Lack of time, however, may keep the workers from completing the job before the week-end. The signs were purchased after Council allotted money in the 1949 budget for their purchase.

The historic Cuttalloss Inn at the intersection of River and Cuttalloss roads, in Solebury Township, which has not held a liquor license since World War II, has an application on file now for a license.

The popular inn and eating place, which annually attracts many folks to the River road section, is owned by Edward A. Colligan and Amanda K. Colligan, of Solebury township.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Berlin rail strikers overwhelmingly rejected yesterday a compromise proposal to end the walk-out that has halted train traffic between the city and the Western zones of Germany. The men were not satisfied with Soviet promises there would be no reprisals. In Paris the Big Four made no progress at secret sessions toward a minimum agreement on Berlin. Russia was said to have balked at guaranteeing the Western powers freer access to Berlin.

United States and British military officials agreed on anti-cartel action against the Bosch auto-electric combine. When John J. McCloy assumes his post as United States High Commissioner for Germany, he will have his own de-caratization staff. United States military authorities said that in his present status Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's Finance Minister, could be appointed to a post in the projected West German Government. In Washington the Army publicly apologized for having called TVA Chairman Clapp "unemployable" in Germany, and banned the use of the word.

Israeli and Arab forces evacuated disputed neutral ground in Jerusalem. President Truman was reported considering John Foster

HOW MANY IDLE?

There are many ways of measuring a depression. The one which the American people are most interested in, however, is that of unemployment.

We have had a "recession" under way for at least six months. The big question is: how far have we skidded—how many people has this set-back thrown out of work?

That's the thermometer with which the majority of Americans want to take the temperature of national economy, and see how sick it is.

BUT THEY BETTER BE SURE THAT THE THERMOMETER IS WORKING—BE SURE THAT IT HASN'T BEEN "RIGGED."

A few days back the U. S. Census Bureau issued figures showing that there were 3,289,000 persons unemployed in May.

This was disturbingly high—the highest since the end of the war. It was disturbing also to find it still rising when the usual seasonal trend is downward.

On the other hand, it is still well below the more or less arbitrary figures which many have chosen as the "fever points." Most government economists are thinking in terms of five million idle as being critical—the place where the government will have to face up to the situation as a developing emergency. Some labor groups, and many of those who want to hurry us into Socialism, have selected four million idle as being the peril point.

The Census Bureau figures were well inside either of these two "ceilings."

But shortly after the official report came out, a story was published in Washington to the effect that the real picture was much worse—that the actual tabulation of the Census staff showed a total of 4,800,000 being unemployed. The implication was that the Bureau had suppressed the true facts for fear they would scare the country silly, and set off a panic.

This story was promptly denied. It was denied, unfortunately by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, which is little more than a political sounding board for the President. The denial did not entirely quiet the rumor. The N. Y. Stock Market, for instance, had one of the worst collapses it has suffered yet, and sank to new postwar lows, after the denial had been made.

Safe-Cracker Is Scared Away from Grand Theatre

A safe-cracker was frightened from the Grand Theatre early this morning, without being successful in his apparent effort to force open the safe of the theatre.

In his haste to get away, the burglar left a complete set of tools which it is believed he planned to use in the course of opening the safe.

James Vinson, who is the night watchman at the theatre, was in the basement at the time, and was startled to hear footsteps coming down the stairs. He yelled "Who's there?" The burglar then dropped the tools and fled. Police were called and investigated, and were unable to find any evidence of forcible entry. It is thought that, perhaps, the burglar had remained in the theatre from the last show.

SECRETS FOR SALE

Some of the testimony introduced in the various espionage trials and in the Lihenthal hearings comes close to a revelation of military secrets.

There is, however, no such thrill inherent in the publication of the FBI report that the Soviet Union received in 1947 and through normal channels a shipment of atomic research devices from the United States.

This is a straightforward account of an actual commercial transaction and should serve as a useful warning to this country at the Russians may be further advanced than most persons had thought in the field of atomic energy.

There is no danger to the national security in stating that fact, indeed, it ought to cause the United States to tighten its regulations and increase its precautions of its atomic energy plants and to screen more carefully the men and women who are engaged in the work of research, development and manufacture.

Why this shipment to Russia was permitted is not explained by the FBI. This did not take place during the war when materials and information were freely exported to Moscow. It happened at a time when the Soviet was well embarked on that campaign of aggression which, if continued long enough, could become a threat to America's security.

It happened, in fact, at a time when this country was getting ready to spend billions to protect Europe against the Russians and when the cold war was in full swing.

Most Americans want to know more about this business — who sanctioned it and who executed it.

THAT MECHANICAL BRAIN

Much comment has followed announcement that the U. S. Bureau of Standards has a new "mechanical brain," described as capable of translating English into three foreign tongues. All the discussion to date has left doubt as to the real merits of the device.

It isn't merely that the brilliant new robot isn't a truly efficient translator. All the monster does is to take any one of 60,000 English words and substitute for it the rough foreign equivalent. It cannot have regard for syntax or context.

The most disconcerting result of the marvelous invention would be to do away with a prime weapon of modern diplomacy and of conquering armies, the mysteries of another land's conversation and the interpreters thereof.

It would be difficult to get a true-to-form word picture from the new automaton. How would it reveal the latest tune to which men like Andrei Vichinsky have set their favorite lyrics, "No, no, a thousand times no?"

Most disturbing is the possible adaptation of the translating device by the Army for field duty abroad. It wouldn't seem right to send GIs for duty in France equipped with a miniature model of the mechanical translator.

How Many Idle?

The truth of the matter is, of course, there has been so much plain and fancy lying by big-shot New Deal politicians, for propaganda purposes, that no one now knows whom or what to believe.

But there is a still more serious objection to the Census Bureau tabulations as a measure of economic health, regardless of whether the Bureau is telling the unvarnished truth.

This objection is that the way in which idleness is counted, at the present time, does not adequately give the total of those who are not gainfully employed — and therefore have to be carried by those who are.

The question isn't: how many are off a payroll?

The real question is: how many are receiving indirect "relief" or "made work" pay-checks for services which are unnecessary, and which do not contribute to the income-producing machinery of the United States?

The total of those who are taking a "free ride" on the backs of the workers those who are really doing needed and productive work — that's the important figure. And it can't be determined exactly.

Take the U. S. payroll. There is no doubt that all the "work" being done by the Federal payroll of two million could be done as well or better by one million. In a pinch, it might be done by less than that.

Now, when you come down to cases, what is the real difference between the practice during the Thirties of hiring a man at $55 a month to rake leaves on a WPA project, and hiring a million extra Federal employees at fancy salaries?

The WPA workers were uniformly counted as among the "unemployed" during the Thirties.

By all rules of logic, at least a million dead-end passengers on the New Deal gravy train ought to be counted as "unemployed" today.

There are innumerable other places where those who are holding "jobs," technically, are making no real contribution to the nation's economy and therefore ought to be listed as idle, for the purposes of measuring economic health.

"Feather-bedding" persists throughout a host of fields under union practices. Everyone knows this. But no one knows how much the industrial staff has been "watered" by this practice — what percentage or what total of the job-holders actually are "unemployed" in the sense that their services aren't really needed.

There are hundreds of thousands of young men and women who would be unemployed today, conditions being what they are, except for the fact that they are in the armed services or are attending school under the Veterans Law.

A large share of the industrial activity today is for military branches, which, whatever its necessity otherwise, certainly cannot be considered a contribution to the enrichment of American economy. Some of this frankly is "made work," and most of the rest of it may eventually prove to be. So far as economic health is concerned, here is another pool of concealed unemployment.

This whole subject is one which Congress ought to survey. What we really need, to know where we stand, is how many Americans are actually filling needed jobs where they support the nation's economy — and how many others are living comfortably at their expense!

President Judge Keller continued the case of Edward Horn, Chalfont, charged with desertion and non-support, for one month, but directed that the defendant turn all the rent from the apartment over to his wife, Frances Horn, and two children, of Lansdale.

William Glen Hoyt, Doylestown, World War II infantryman, who deserted his French war bride and their child in their Edison home and is $1225 in arrears on a support order, was sentenced to jail Monday by President Judge Hiram H. Keller for contempt of a support order.

Judge Calvia S. Boyer, who presided at the initial desertion and non-support hearing, directed that Hoyt pay $25 a week for the support of his wife and child beginning June 28, 1948. Hoyt made one payment.

Since that time he has worked in Lambertville, travelled with a circus through the South, barn-stormed with a thrill show, winding up in Reading, where he boarded in the home of a minister.

Testifying that the minister's daughter became infatuated with him and that she thought he was a single man until it was "too late," Hoyt said the family took him in to be nice to him and give him a home.

"There has been a warrant sworn out for you and you are in very serious trouble in connection with your relationship with the young daughter of the minister in whose home you lived," Judge Keller said.

Hoyt, who said he was only earning about $25 while employed in Reading, denied that he knew any-

PLANNED For a SMALL LOT

AN EXTERIOR OF REDWOOD SIDING and a cedar shingle roof lend this attractive little house an air of distinction. Its individuality is further enhanced by the recessed entrance and Dutch door, such an arrangement doing away with the boxy appearance of many small houses.

By MARION CLYDE MCCARROLL

TINY as this snug little home appears from the street, it actually has 870 square feet of floor space, into which are ingeniously fitted a large living room, dining room, kitchen, snack bar, two bedrooms and bath. A rear enclosed terrace practically adds an extra living room.

Among the many special features which make it attractive to the home builder are the fact that it was planned for a very small lot, and that its cost is well under $10,000.

Brick in natural color, accented by white trim, gives the front of the house a sparkling, fresh look. Although the house is actually far from traditional in design, it combines, outside and in, the charm of the traditional with the flexibility and freedom of the modern. An attractive innovation is the recessed entrance, which increases the apparent front width of the house and does away with the square boxy appearance of many small houses. A Dutch entrance door, flanked by tiers of open shelves for growing plants, adds an unexpected and inexpensive note of individuality.

Another original detail is the triangular plant-stand under the bedroom window. Besides adding a decorative color note to the facade, the stand also serves to balance this small window against the very large picture-window on the opposite side of the door.

Because this large living-room picture-window "turns the corner" and continues until interrupted by the fireplace, the generous window area gives the room a heightened sense of freedom and space, further enhanced by exposed ceiling rafters.

Informality is the keynote of this friendly house. Large-paned windows also give a flexible, spacious feeling to the dining area, contrasting effectively with the traditional effect of the pine panelling on the walls. A long mantel-shelf extends almost for the full length of the brick-and-pine fireplace wall, and to brighten the center of the room, the present owner conceived the ingenious idea of displaying her collection of American handmade glassware on the shelf where they reflect light and brilliance from the end windows. A built-in woodbox handily stores a ready supply of fuel for chilly evenings.

One of the most novel features of the house is the clever way the dining area at the terrace end of the living-room can be used as both a dining and a sitting-room. This is accomplished chiefly by the use of a large handsome built-in cabinet which forms one wall of the alcove. On the open shelves of the cabinet, decorative pieces of American handmade glassware are here, too, add charm and importance to the room, besides making it seem larger by reflecting light from the floor-to-ceiling sidewall of windows. The sparkle of the glassware against the smooth pine of the cabinet provides a gracious background for a game or conversation corner. A further decorative note is furnished by narrow shelves fitted into the windows to hold other beautiful pieces of glassware.

At mealtime, the ingenious practicality of the cabinet becomes further apparent. The hinged top-center section can be quickly let down to form a table which adequately serves four or five people. Dishes, linens and other equipment are stored in the enclosed lower half.

A short window-walled passageway leads from dining-room to kitchen, freely admitting light and lightening kitchen tasks by giving from this trim room an unobstructed view of the terrace. The kitchen is partly divided from the passageway by a pine snack-bar.

The bath is centrally situated between the two bedrooms and near the living-room. Both bedrooms have roomy closets and there is a large closet in the center connecting hallway.

The basementless house is built on a concrete slab foundation and heated by a compact modern heating unit. Outside walls are of redwood siding and the roof is cedar shingles.

SMALL AS THE HOUSE APPEARS from the street, it packs a lot of living into its 870 square feet of space. Two bedrooms with bath between, a large living room with dining area and kitchen with snack bar are included.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

WARM weather, bringing with it the urge to roam the great outdoors, indicates to a knowing housewife that, once, again, time will prove the most important factor in preparing meals for her family during the next few months.

However, since any conscientious cook is never completely willing to sacrifice quality for speed, the A & P Service for Homemakers recommends trying skillet meat loaf, an easily prepared, yet surprisingly substantial meal. Served with frozen, mixed vegetables and lettuce wedges with Russian dressing, this meal will consume a minimum amount of time and provide maximum satisfaction.

Necessary ingredients include one pound of round of beef, ground with two tablespoons of chopped green pepper, one quarter cup chopped onion, three tablespoons chopped celery, one cup of crushed corn flakes, one well-beaten egg, one teaspoon of salt, one tablespoon catsup, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and one-half teaspoon of mustard.

Shape this mixture round so as to fit into skillet and place in two tablespoons of hot fat in pan. Break the package of frozen vegetables in half and place in the pan. Cover and cook for 20 minutes over simmer flame.

Then remove and garnish with sprigs of watercress before serving. This meal will provide four adequate servings and, naturally, increased servings can be provided simply by increasing the ingredients proportionately.

Starting this meal with cream of tomato soup and winding it up with a fresh fruit cup with cookies or other fancy crackers will give it just the proper touch of non-chalance which appeals to those anxious to waste no time before renewing their acquaintance with Mother Nature.

You know, all religion isn't simply finding out how evil we are! There is a lot of real joy tied up in it, too. Lots of writers today try to tell us that Jesus was a failure, and to look at most of the religious art, one would think so. But last summer, we used some slides in our Church School that actually showed our Lord smiling. What a welcome change! And what a difference the thought of a friendly, smiling Christ can make in our lives. Spend one day thinking of Him in that way, and you will have a different outlook.

FIREMEN FAIL TO HOLD LEAD; LOSE TO JEFFERSON

Fire Company No. 1, failed to hold a two-run lead in its tilt with Jefferson A. C. last evening on Memorial Park field and were beaten out 8-3, when Jefferson scored six times in the fourth inning.

Until the outbreak of the six runs, the firemen were in front and Jefferson had made but two hits off "Eddie" Kornichuk. But once in front Jefferson played like champions and held its lead.

The sextet of markers were scored when Hunter and Imperato drew walks. Ed Hunter was forced out by Tom Ruggieri. John Cordisco was given a base on balls to load the bags. Both Imperato and Ruggieri crossed the plate when Calone let B. Crohe's throw get away from him on Willie Salerno's grounder. Joe Ferraro walked to again pack the bases. Howard Peltz sent Cordisco home with a hit. After Clott lined out, "Vic" Cauti brought in two more runs with a hit. Two more walks forced in Peltz with the sixth tally.

H. Cochran gave the fire fighters their pair of tallies in the second when he clouted out a home run with "Pete" Caputa on base.

Salerno was the winning hurler, he giving up five hits and walking but one man. Kornichuk passed 11 batters, six in the fourth frame.

FLEETWING ESTATES DROPS TENTH GAME

TULLYTOWN, June 15 — Fleetwing Estates dropped its tenth straight game of the Bristol Suburban Softball League last evening as it bowed to the Tullytown A. C. team, 5-3, on the Kings Farm field. The victory also strengthened Tullytown's grip on first place in the circuit.

Claude "Tim" Deitzler hurled the Tullytown boys to the triumph and with the exception of the fifth frame had easy sailing all evening. Of the seven hits allowed by the Tullytown moundman, four came in the seventh when the Estates' team manufactured a pair of runs.

The recently-acquired Tony Zanni did the pitching for the Estates contingent. He was touched for eleven hits, one a home run by Tony Rappo in the fourth inning. No one was on base at the time. Zanni's support was ragged, the five errors being charged to his team aiding the homers in scoring.

"Frankie" Balazs had two hits for the losers while "Norm" White, Roy Lynch and Rappo had a pair of bingles each for Tullytown.

ST. ANN'S MOVES NEARER 2ND PLACE IN TRENTON LEAGUE

St. Ann's A. A. moved to within one-half game of second place in the Trenton Industrial League last evening by winning over the Trenton Pirates, 9-6, on Memorial Park field. The "Saints" have their real test this evening when they play the league-leading American Steel team on Memorial field.

Leo Fiorelli and Tony Cauti did the mound work for the Wood Streeters against the Pirates. Fiorelli was the winning pitcher, he being taken out in the seventh when the visitors scored three times.

Jack Toppin was Manager Fred Scully's choice for hill work. Toppin managed to stay the limit but the hard hitting Bristol team collected 12 hits off his delivery.

Bert Barbetta accounted for two of the St. Ann's runs in the first canto by slashing one of Toppin's pitches to deep centerfield for a home run, scoring "Chuck" Klein ahead of him. Klein had singled to score Tony Palumbo who had opened the game with a two-bagger.

Joe Elmer was behind the plate for the "Saints" and had a double and single to his credit. He drove in three St. Ann's tallies and did a fine job in catching.

Leading the visitors with the stick was Johnny Tarr who had three out of five.

St. Ann's made fast double-plays in the first and fifth innings to cut threatening Pirates' rallies.
